PageGrade business plan

From £0 to £10,000 MRR as fast as possible, on a budget of under £20

PageGrade LTD · Version 2 · 9 November 2026

What's new in version 2

- Agencies' own websites are no longer reviewed. Agencies are offered a free pack of three audits of businesses they could win, with the agency's own name and logo on them. Only business owners get an audit of their own page.
- Most of the selling runs itself. The free Outreach Autopilot (a Google Sheet with a script, included) finds contact emails, sends, follows up, and stops when someone replies, opts out or bounces. You add names and websites, make packs and take calls.
- Every growth strategy is listed and ranked: do now, do later (with the trigger for starting it) or skip, with the reason.
- Checked against PageGrade's code, with the maths redone. For example: the AI cap pauses every review, paying customers' too; the default caps allow far more AI spend than this budget; and because each prospect gets up to three emails, 30 emails a day reach about 10 new prospects, not 30.
- Three scenarios instead of one hopeful line, with every assumption shown. Outside prices that can change are marked (check).

Why version 1 reviewed agencies' own websites, and why that's gone

Version 1 used each agency's homepage as the free sample. It was the one page you could be sure they cared about, and it showed the kind of audit they could send to their own prospects. You were right to question it. Agencies pay for tools that help them win and keep clients, not to have their own site marked, and an audit they didn't ask for can feel like criticism.

Now agencies are offered audits of businesses they could win, with their own branding, so PageGrade looks like a sales tool, not a critique. It's also cheaper: AI is only spent on agencies that say yes.

At a glance

- Goal: £10,000 monthly recurring revenue (MRR).
- When: about month 8 (July 2027) if things go well, and about month 14 (January 2028) in the base case. In the slow case it takes more than two years, so the month-3 checkpoint (Mon 15 Feb 2027) decides what to change.
- Main customers: small agencies on the £99 Agency plan. About 101 agencies alone make £10k (67 at £149).
- Second customers: business owners on Starter (£9) and Pro (£29).
- The engine: Autopilot emails offering a free prospect pack → pack → 15-minute call → Agency plan. Partners, the free grader and posts add sign-ups.
- Budget: about £17–£21 to start (£13–£17 with $5 of AI credit). Extras, like more mailboxes, are paid from revenue.
- Your time: about 1.5–2 hours a day, plus 3–4 hours a week for posts, calls and numbers.

1. Where PageGrade starts

- Product: version 2.1 is built. It reviews a landing page in about a minute for about 1.5p of AI cost. It includes a free grader with no sign-up, weekly monitoring with alerts, agency tools (client folders, bulk reviews of up to 25 pages, your name, logo and colour on shared and PDF reports, and an optional white label that hides PageGrade's name), "Email the fixes" drafts, an AI search readiness check, yearly billing, a partner programme, feedback tracking, and an admin page with MRR, sign-ups and AI spend.
- Status: not live yet. Do the launch checks in DEPLOY.md before taking payments. This plan assumes no customers today.

- Main risk: people use it once and leave, or think ChatGPT does the same for free. So we sell to people who need reviews every month (agencies), and make weekly monitoring the reason to stay.

Plan	Monthly	Yearly	Includes
Free	£0	–	3 reviews in total
Starter	£9	£90	10 reviews a month, 1 weekly check
Pro	£29	£290	40 reviews a month, 5 weekly checks (competitors too), PDF reports, priority
Agency	£99	£990	200 reviews a month, 50 weekly checks, your branding and white label, client folders, bulk reviews of up to 25 pages

2. Who we sell to, the offer and pricing

Agencies: the main customers

- Who: web design, development, SEO and marketing agencies with 1–20 people, and freelancers who build sites, in the UK and the US.
- Why they pay: they win clients by showing prospects what's wrong with their site, and keep clients by showing progress. PageGrade does both in minutes, with the agency's name on every report.
- The offer: "Three ready-to-send audits of businesses you'd like to win, with your agency's name and logo on them. Free." They send three websites, or you pick three in their niche and city.
- Why it works: it's useful on day one, it shows the product doing their job, and doing it every week needs the Agency plan.

Business owners: the second customers

- Who: businesses whose page has to sell: SaaS, online shops and local services, especially those running ads (they pay for every visit).
- The hook: three specific fixes for their page in the email, and a link to the full free report.
- Upgrade path: 3 free reviews, then Starter (£9) or Pro (£29) to re-check after changes and get weekly checks.

Partners

- Consultants, freelancers and agencies who advise businesses can refer customers for 30% of what they pay for 12 months (after a 30-day hold, minimum payout £50). It's built in: anyone can get a partner link.

The AI readiness hook

- PageGrade checks whether AI tools (such as ChatGPT search) can reach and read a page. Say exactly that. Don't say it shows whether AI tools mention or recommend the business: it doesn't.

Pricing rules

- Founding price: anyone who starts by Sunday 31 January 2027 keeps today's price for life. That's the only urgency you need.
- Yearly plans: two months free (£990 instead of £1,188 for Agency). Good for cash; it counts as £82.50 a month of MRR.
- Raise Agency to £149 for new customers after 15 happy agencies. Existing Stripe subscriptions keep their price. To do it, create a new £149 price in Stripe, move the lookup key `pagegrade_agency_monthly` to it (and `pagegrade_agency_yearly` for a new yearly price), and update the price shown in `src/lib/plans.ts`.
- 30-day money-back promise on Agency: only if fewer than 10% of packs turn into customers. Update the terms first.
- No other discounts.

3. The money

Start-up budget

Item	Cost	Notes
Domain name	£5–£9	First year, .com or .co.uk (check)
Railway Hobby hosting	about £4	$5 a month, including $5 of usage (check)
OpenAI credit	about £8	$10 prepaid with auto-recharge off. $5 (about £4) also works (check the minimum)
Outreach Autopilot	£0	Google Sheets and Apps Script
Gmail	£0	A separate free account for outreach
Booking link, alerts, post scheduling	£0	Cal.com, F5Bot and LinkedIn's own scheduler
Total	£17–£21	£13–£17 with $5 of AI credit

Not in the £20

- ICO data protection fee: £52 a year for tier 1, £47 by direct debit (2025 rates, check). It's a legal cost of running PageGrade, not marketing.
- Stripe fees: about 1.5% + 20p per UK card payment, plus 0.7% for subscriptions (check).
- Later, from revenue: more outreach mailboxes (about £7–£8 a month each on Google Workspace, check) and an assistant.

Settings that protect the budget

- `AI_DAILY_BUDGET_USD=1` (the default is 25): about 50 reviews a day. When it's reached, every review pauses for the rest of the day, paying customers' too. Raise it to $3 once people pay, then add about $0.30 a day for each Agency customer. It's an estimate, not a hard stop.
- `FREE_GRADER_DAILY_LIMIT=20` (the default is 150, about $3 a day): about 30p a day at most. Keep `FREE_GRADER_PER_IP=3`.
- Prepaid OpenAI credit with auto-recharge off is the real limit. Set a budget alert too, and top up from revenue on Mondays.
- `ADMIN_EMAILS`: your account and the demo account you use for packs, separated by a comma.

What each customer costs

- A review costs about $0.019 (1.5p). A weekly check costs the same.
- A heavy Agency customer (200 reviews and 50 weekly checks, about 420 AI runs a month) costs about £6 a month in AI. After AI and Stripe fees, about 90% of the £99 is margin.
- A prospect pack costs about 5p (3 reviews). Ten owner reviews a day cost about £4.50 a month.
- One Pro customer (£29) covers the basic running costs.

Tax

- UK VAT: register once taxable turnover passes £90,000 in any 12 months in a row. In the base case that's around month 17 (April 2028).
- EU consumers: VAT is due from the first sale (the EU's non-Union OSS scheme handles it). Ask an accountant before your first EU consumer sale.

4. The maths of £10k

What £10k a month looks like

- About 101 Agency customers at £99 (£9,999), or about 67 at £149.
- Or a mix: 70 Agency + 90 Pro + 60 Starter = 220 customers and £10,080.

- Cancellations set a ceiling. MRR stops growing when what you lose equals what you add. With 4% of customers leaving each month, £400 of new MRR a month tops out at £10,000, so you need well over £400 a month to get there quickly.

What one mailbox produces

Once warmed up, the Autopilot sends up to 30 emails a day from one mailbox, follow-ups included. Each prospect gets up to three emails, so that's about 50 new prospects a week: for example 40 agencies and 10 business owners.

One mailbox, per month	Slow	Base	Fast
New agency prospects	172	172	172
Ask for a free pack	3% → 5	5% → 9	7% → 12
Become Agency customers	15% of packs → 0.8	20% of packs → 1.7	30% of packs → 3.6
Owners who pay (of 43 emailed)	1% → 0.4	2% → 0.9	3% → 1.3
New MRR from one mailbox	£85	£190	£380

So one mailbox adds roughly £85–£380 of new MRR a month: less than the £400 a month that £10k needs when 4% of customers cancel each month. That's why the plan adds mailboxes once the numbers are proven, and builds partners and inbound sign-ups from month 3.

Three scenarios

MRR at the end of		Slow	Base	Fast
Month 1	December 2026	£43	£94	£190
Month 2	January 2027	£130	£280	£570
Month 3	February 2027	£250	£550	£1,470
Month 6	May 2027	£750	£2,150	£6,270
Month 9	August 2027	£1,390	£5,040	£12,180
Month 12	November 2027	£2,150	£8,270	£18,230
Month 18	May 2028	£3,970	£14,900	£30,700
Month 24	November 2028	£6,250	£21,720	£43,590
Passes £10k		after 2 years	month 14	month 8

Assumption	Slow	Base	Fast
Agency prospects who ask for a pack	3%	5%	7%
Packs that become paying agencies	15%	20%	30%
Owners emailed who pay (about £20 a month)	1%	2%	3%
Outreach mailboxes	1	1, 2 from month 4, 3 from month 7	1, 2 from month 3, 3 from month 5
New MRR from partners, grader and posts	£50 from month 3, then +£25 a month	£100 from month 3, then + £50 a month	£150 from month 3, then + £75 a month
Customers who cancel each month	5%	4%	3%

In every case new agencies pay £99 until there are 15, then £149. Month 1 counts half (warm-up and time to decide). Everyone is counted as paying monthly. Nobody knows these rates before the first 200 prospects; the checkpoints in section 11 tell you which case you're in.

5. Every strategy, ranked

Ranked by expected new MRR for each hour of your time, at almost no cost.

Do now

#	Strategy	Why	What's automated
1	Agency emails offering a free prospect pack	The main engine: agencies need audits every week	Autopilot finds emails, sends, follows up and stops on replies
2	A prospect pack for every yes	Turns a reply into a trial of the real product	PageGrade bulk review with their branding: 10 minutes
3	Owner emails with three real fixes	Second track; fills Starter and Pro	Bulk review and Email the fixes; the Autopilot sends
4	Warm leads: people asking for website or landing page feedback	They asked for help, so replies convert well	F5Bot emails you matching posts from Reddit and Hacker News
5	Free grader on the homepage	Turns visitors into sign-ups with no effort	Already built; daily caps protect the budget
6	A personal note to every new sign-up	The cheapest way to get early users to pay	Newest users on the admin page; template in section 8
7	Two public teardowns a week	Trust and inbound sign-ups; doubles as samples	Write both in one sitting; LinkedIn's scheduler posts them
8	Ask every happy customer for one intro	Referrals close fastest	Template in section 8; partner commission is tracked for you
9	Swap the public sample report to a local business	Today it reviews an agency's homepage, the hook we dropped	One-off change to public/demo (section 10)

Do later: start when the trigger happens

Strategy	Start when
Partner emails to consultants and freelancers (Partner track in the Autopilot)	Month 2, once 3 customers are happy
More mailboxes: Google Workspace on a separate outreach domain (about £7–£8 a month each, check)	5%+ of 200 agency prospects ask for a pack, and revenue covers it
An assistant to find prospects (name and website)	MRR over £1,500, or research takes over an hour a day
Data study: review 100 sites in one niche and publish what you find (about $2 of AI)	Month 2, then monthly
An SEO article every two weeks, for example "landing page audit checklist"	Month 2
Personal LinkedIn messages, typed by hand, to agency founders who react to your posts (up to 10 a day)	Month 2
Teardown videos: the weekly teardown as a 2-minute screen recording for YouTube and LinkedIn	Month 3
Free launch sites: Uneed, Microlaunch, Peerlist, Fazier (free options, check)	Month 2
Free listings: G2, Capterra, SaaSHub, AlternativeTo	After 5 paying customers who can leave reviews
Product Hunt and Show HN	After 10 paying customers and smooth onboarding
Raise Agency to £149 for new customers	After 15 happy agencies

Strategy	Start when
A bigger agency plan, for example 600 reviews and 150 weekly checks	When 5+ agencies use most of their 200 reviews
Guest spots: agency podcasts, newsletters, communities, webinars	Month 4
Paid ads or sponsored newsletters, in £100 tests paid from revenue	MRR over £3,000
A Chrome extension (one-time $5 developer fee, check)	MRR over £3,000
Webflow, Shopify or WordPress apps	MRR over £5,000

Skip

Don't	Why
Review agencies' own websites	Feels like criticism, and it isn't what they pay for
Buy lists or scrape social networks	Breaks UK rules or site terms; bad data bounces
Send more than 30 emails a day per mailbox, or use throwaway accounts	Spam folder and suspended accounts
Automate posts or messages in communities or on LinkedIn	Breaks their rules and gets you banned
Lifetime deals	Caps MRR and brings heavy support
Fiverr and Upwork	Their rules limit taking clients off the platform, and prices are low
More discounts	The founding price is the only urgency you need
Big new features before 25 paying customers ask for them	Selling is the bottleneck, not features
Promise results like "double your conversions"	You can't prove it, and advertising rules require proof
Cold email to the EU	Different consent rules in each country

6. The automated sales machine

How it flows

1. You add 10–12 agencies a day per mailbox: company, website, city and niche (20–30 minutes).
2. Autopilot finds a contact email on each website and notes any company number. You check each row and set OK to email to Yes (5 minutes).
3. Autopilot sends the first email and up to two follow-ups, 4 days apart, inside your sending hours and daily limit.
4. Autopilot marks replies (yellow), opt-outs (grey, added to Do not contact) and bounces (red), and stops emailing them.
5. You make a prospect pack for every yes (10 minutes) and reply in the same thread.
6. You take a 15-minute call, or they sign up on their own.
7. PageGrade keeps them: weekly checks and alerts for their clients' sites. You do one onboarding call.
8. You ask happy customers for an intro and to share their partner link.

Who does what

Job	Done by	Your time
Finding agencies (name and website)	You, and an assistant later	20–30 min a day
Contact emails and company numbers	Autopilot (Find emails)	5 min to check
Writing, sending and following up	Autopilot, from your templates	None
Replies, opt-outs, bounces, dashboard	Autopilot	None
Prospect packs	PageGrade bulk review with their branding	10 min each

Job	Done by	Your time
Business-owner prospects	PageGrade bulk review and Email the fixes	15 min a day
Warm leads	F5Bot emails you; you reply	15 min a day
Welcome notes	Newest users on the admin page	10 min a day
Teardown posts	LinkedIn's scheduler	1–2 hours a week

Where to find agencies

- Directories: Clutch, DesignRush, Sortlist and GoodFirms (filter by city and team size), and partner directories: Webflow Experts, Shopify Partners, Framer Experts and HubSpot Solutions. Copy the name and website by hand; don't run scrapers on sites whose terms forbid it.
- Google Maps: search, for example, "web design agency Leeds", and pick businesses with a website and a team page.
- Companies House (free): confirm UK agencies are limited companies. Agency SIC codes include 62012, 73110 and 74100.
- Good targets: 1–20 people, client work in their portfolio, an email address on the site. Skip big agencies and anyone outside the UK or US.

Making a prospect pack (10 minutes)

1. Use a second admin account just for packs, for example yourname+demo@gmail.com, added to `ADMIN_EMAILS` so it has every Agency feature for free.
2. Set its branding to the agency: name, website, colour and logo (PNG or JPG, from their site). Turn on White label so only their brand shows.
3. Bulk-review the three websites they sent (or three businesses in their niche and city) into a client folder named after the agency.
4. Download the three PDFs and read them.
5. Reply in the same Gmail thread with the PDFs attached, using the pack reply in section 8. Type Pack sent in the row's Status (the Autopilot leaves statuses you type alone).
6. Send PDFs, never share links, from the demo account. Its branding changes with every pack, so old links would show the next agency's logo.

Business-owner prospects (15 minutes a day)

1. Find pages that have to sell: businesses running ads (Google Ads Transparency Center, Meta Ad Library), new launches (Product Hunt, BetaList) and local services with a booking or quote page.
2. In your main account (never the demo account), bulk-review 10 pages a day into a folder called Owner prospects.
3. Open each review, click Email the fixes, and copy the top three fixes into Fixes and the share link into Report link. Set Track to Owner.
4. Run Find emails, check the rows and set OK to email. The Autopilot does the rest.

Warm leads and posts

- F5Bot (free) emails you when chosen phrases appear on Reddit and Hacker News, for example "landing page feedback", "roast my landing page" and "client audit tool". Reply with useful advice; offer a free report only if it helps and the community allows it.
- Two teardowns a week: review a well-known page with PageGrade and post the three most useful fixes with a screenshot. Write both in one sitting and schedule them in LinkedIn.

Adding mailboxes: the main way to grow faster

- When: at least 5% of your last 200 agency prospects asked for a pack, and revenue covers the cost.
- How: buy a second domain (for example getpagegrade.com, £5–£9), add a Google Workspace mailbox on it (about £7–£8 a month, check), set up SPF, DKIM and DMARC, and start at 10 a day for two weeks. A separate domain protects the main one that PageGrade's emails come from.

- Give each mailbox its own copy of the sheet with a different set of prospects (for example UK and US), and copy new opt-outs into every copy each Monday.
- Each mailbox needs 10–12 new rows a day. At three mailboxes, an assistant for the research pays for itself.

Email rules

- Only email UK limited companies, LLPs and public bodies, or US businesses. UK sole traders and most partnerships need consent first. Skip the EU.
- Every email shows your name, the company's registered name, number and where it's registered, its registered office address, a privacy link and an easy opt-out (UK company law, PECR and UK GDPR; in the US, CAN-SPAM). The Autopilot adds them to every email.
- The privacy page needs a short outreach section: where you found the details (company websites and directories), why (legitimate interests), how long you keep them and how to object.
- Use addresses published on the company's own site. Honest subject lines, plain text, one link and no attachments in first emails. Never more than 30 a day per mailbox.
- Honour opt-outs at once (the Autopilot does), and never remove anyone from Do not contact.

7. Daily and weekly routine

When	What	Time
09:00	Add 10–12 new prospects per mailbox, run Find emails, check the rows, set OK to email	30 min
11:00	Answer the yellow rows (replies); make and send packs within 24 hours	30–45 min
14:00	F5Bot alerts and community replies (helpful answers, no links unless asked)	15 min
16:00	Welcome notes to new sign-ups and support	15 min
Monday	Numbers: Autopilot dashboard and admin page (MRR, sign-ups, AI spend). Top up AI credit. Copy opt-outs between sheets if you have more than one mailbox	30 min
Tuesday	Write two teardowns and schedule them	1 hour
Wednesday	Every other week: an article or a data study (from month 2)	1.5 hours
Thursday	Partner emails and intros (from month 2)	30 min
Friday	Calls; fix one thing customers asked for	1 hour

8. What to send after a reply

You send these yourself, from Gmail. Change the words so they sound like you.

Reply with the pack

Hi [first name],

Here are the three audits, ready to send (attached). Each has your agency's name and logo, a score, the top fixes and suggested rewrites.

If you'd like to send audits like these every week, the Agency plan is £99 a month or £990 a year: 200 reviews a month, your branding on every report and PDF, client folders, bulk reviews of up to 25 pages, and weekly checks with alerts for your clients' sites. Start by 31 January and you keep that price for life.

Happy to show you how it works in 15 minutes: [booking link]

The 15-minute call

1. What do you send prospects today, and how long does it take? (2 min)
2. Bulk-review five of their prospects live, into a new client folder. (5 min)
3. Show their branding on a report and PDF, and set up weekly checks for one client. (4 min)
4. Price, the founding deadline (31 January) and the yearly option. (2 min)
5. Send the checkout link while you're still on the call. (2 min)

Welcome note to every new sign-up

Hi [first name], I'm [your name], I built PageGrade. Thanks for trying it. What page are you working on? Reply with the link and I'll tell you the first change I'd make.

When someone uses up the free reviews

Hi [first name], you've used your three free reviews. To re-check your page after changes, Starter is £9 a month for 10 reviews and a weekly check. Pro is £29 for 40 reviews, competitor checks and PDF reports. Any questions, just reply.

Asking for an intro

Glad it's working for you. Do you know one other agency owner who'd find it useful? If you share your partner link, you get 30% of what they pay for 12 months.

9. Keeping customers

- An onboarding call in week 1 for every Agency customer (15 minutes): set up their branding, one client folder and weekly checks for their top five clients. Monitoring is the reason they stay.
- Check-ins on day 7 and day 25, with one question each: what's working, and what's missing?
- Offer yearly billing in month 2 or 3: two months free.
- Ask everyone who cancels one question: what made you cancel? Fix the top reason each month.
- Target: under 4% of customers cancelling a month.

10. Automation to build into PageGrade

Small changes that remove manual work. Build them in this order, between sales tasks, not instead of them.

Build	Why	Size and when
Change the public sample report (public/demo/brightline-digital.html) to a local business	It reviews an agency's homepage today; agencies should see the kind of report they'd send	Small; now
Export a bulk batch as CSV (website, score, top three fixes, share link)	Paste owner prospects straight into the Autopilot sheet, with no copying from Email the fixes	Small; week 2
Sign-up alert and a weekly founder email	New sign-ups, MRR, cancellations and AI spend against the cap, without opening the admin page	Small; week 2
Lifecycle emails: welcome, tips on day 2, free reviews used up, no review in 7 days	Replaces most of the manual notes in section 8	Medium; month 1
An agencies page with the pack offer, a sample pack and a booking link	Emails and posts can link to it, and it converts visitors on its own	Small; month 1
Branding for each client folder	Packs without a demo account, and share links that are safe to send	Medium; month 2–3

Build	Why	Size and when
A bigger agency plan (limits in plans.ts and new Stripe prices)	More revenue from the agencies that use PageGrade most	Small; when 5+ agencies are near 200 reviews
A grader widget agencies put on their own site, with their branding	Agencies capture their own leads with PageGrade, so they never cancel	Large; when 3+ agencies ask

11. Numbers and checkpoints

Check every Monday

Measure	Target	If it's worse
Agencies asking for a pack	5%+ (7%+ is great)	New subject and opening, then new targets
Opt-outs	Under 2%	Narrower targeting and softer wording
Bounces	Under 3%	Use only addresses on the company's own site
Packs that become customers	20%+	Reply within 24 hours and offer a call
Sign-ups who pay in 60 days	5%+	Welcome notes now, lifecycle emails later
Customers who cancel a month	Under 4%	Onboarding calls and client checks; ask why
AI spend	Under the cap	Raise the cap as customers grow

Checkpoints

Checkpoint	Base MRR	Fast MRR	If you're behind
Mon 23 Nov 2026 (week 2)			Bounces under 3%, opt-outs under 2% and some replies, then raise to 20 a day. If not, fix the list or the email first
Mon 14 Dec 2026 (month 1)	£94	£190	Below £43: test a new subject and opening, and check you're targeting 1–20 person agencies
Mon 11 Jan 2027 (month 2)	£280	£570	Packs not turning into customers: reply faster, offer a call, add the money-back promise
Mon 15 Feb 2027 (month 3)	£550	£1,470	Decision point. Below £250: change the audience (say, only Shopify or SEO agencies) or focus on owners. At or above the base case: add a mailbox
Mon 10 May 2027 (month 6)	£2,150	£6,270	Below the base case: get cancellations under 4%, then add partners and a mailbox
Mon 9 Aug 2027 (month 9)	£5,040	£12,180	Raise the Agency price if you haven't; start paid tests from revenue
Mon 15 Nov 2027 (month 12)	£8,270	£18,230	Below the base case: keep the channels that work and drop the rest

- ☐ Mon 16 Nov: first Monday numbers. Answer replies and send packs within 24 hours. On Mon 23 Nov 2026, raise to 20 a day if bounces are under 3% and opt-outs under 2%.

13. Risks

Risk	Early sign	What to do
Emails land in spam	Replies drop to almost none; bounces rise	Slow down; plain text and one link; check the list. New mailboxes start at 10 a day
Google limits or suspends the outreach account	Sending errors or a warning from Google	30 a day or less, honour opt-outs, and keep outreach on its own account
The AI cap pauses paying customers' reviews	Paused or failed reviews on the admin page	Raise `AI_DAILY_BUDGET_USD` as customers grow: about $0.30 a day per Agency customer
AI credit runs out	Balance under $3	Auto-recharge off; top up from revenue on Mondays
Agencies don't ask for packs	Under 2% after 200 prospects	New subject and opening; a narrower niche (for example Shopify or SEO agencies); more owner emails
Packs don't convert	Under 10% of packs	Faster replies, a call and the money-back promise
"ChatGPT does this for free"	Comes up on calls	Show what it can't do: real page capture, speed checks, weekly monitoring, bulk reviews and branded PDFs
Customers cancel	Over 5% a month	Onboarding calls and client checks; ask why
Breaking email rules	A complaint	Companies only, full footer, Do not contact list
Losing data	–	Follow the backup steps in DEPLOY.md every week
Burning out	–	Keep the fixed routine and take one full day off a week

Appendix: setting up the Outreach Autopilot

Everything is in PageGrade-outreach-autopilot.zip (script, sheet and SETUP.txt with more detail). It's free, runs in your own Google account and takes about 15 minutes to set up. It doesn't find agencies, choose who may be emailed or make packs, and it stops watching for replies 45 days after the last email: answer late replies in Gmail and add any opt-outs to Do not contact.

1. Use a separate Gmail account for outreach, under your real name.
2. Upload the sheet to Google Drive, open it with Google Sheets and use File > Save as Google Sheets. Then, in Extensions > Apps Script, replace the sample code with Code.gs and save.
3. Recommended: in Apps Script, add the Gmail API service, so follow-ups stay in the same thread.
4. Reload the sheet and use the Outreach menu. Google asks for permission once; because it's your own script, click Advanced, then Go to the project.
5. Fill in the yellow Settings cells: your name, the company line (registered name, where it's registered and its number), the registered office address, and the sample and privacy links.
6. Make the email templates sound like you. Add prospects, run Find emails, check each row and set OK to email to Yes. Preview the next email and send a test to yourself.
7. Start the autopilot: it runs every hour on weekdays, 9:00 to 17:00, at up to 10 emails a day to start.
